

ABSTRACT

A program recording apparatus for receiving and recording a program. The program recording apparatus includes: a receiving unit receiving a first program and a second program;
5 a recording unit recording the received first and second programs; an acquiring unit acquiring a first title of the first program and a second title of the second program; an extracting unit extracting a first difference from the first title, and extracting a second difference from the second title, the first
10 and second differences being respectively portions of the first and second titles and being different from each other; and a program list generating unit generating a program list based on the first and second differences extracted by the extracting unit.